

Change Your Standpoint Change Your World

Kenneth George Mills

Choice Words

This evening we are here in a country home, and the fire is blazing away and the hearth is very warm, and it does warm the cockles of the heart to know that there are a few who perceive the adventure of appearing as the discoverers of a lost continent termed “the Self.” Never has the world needed such Light to be shed upon the course of events as it is now perceived in the annals of historical suggestion.

The apparent need for the freedom from an alleged false identity will be found to be of great, great importance because, until you shed the skin of belief, you can never experience that pulsation of Being that allows you a prerogative of divinity. You have come out from the audience and have responded to an inner demand which has appeared perhaps as an invitation; it has appeared perhaps as a hope; or it could have appeared as an opportunity (or as a curiosity) to sit for a moment and to consider your impersonal nature and your great offering — through the perception of the course of Truth that is before you but does not lie before you. It establishes the direct approach to the magic of giving the world back to the arms of Love.

For all those seen and unseen, as we sometimes say, gratitude is expressed for your presence, because you could not possibly be here if some aspect of you did not deem it essential. Your querulous mind filled with suggestions and its floppy-disk characteristics would never have gotten you to the steps of this abode had there not been a power present that caused each footstep to be taken as if imprinted into the accuracy of your nature for the expedient release from a false, conjured concept about yourself. There is no time at our disposal. To think that there is is only a sedated consideration that time is involved with your releasement from a false identity!

People often say, "How is a Teaching like this practical?" As you all know, being practical, you find yourselves here. It is practical to article for the Law regardless of your degree in the judicial system, for to-day it is essential that there be those who are capable of sounding a tone, or eliciting one from someone, that will alert you to the inherent factor within your Self that causes you to respond to the magic and wonder of an authentic State that allows the illusion to appear and yet to be known as I IS.

You cannot entertain what is termed a divine Idea and not have a corresponding identity. That is the practicality of what is termed "the Absolute" or "the Path of the Uncontradictable" or "the ninth Yoga Path," as I have been told. I just use these paths to try to make you feel more at home. I know nothing about them. You in your learned state perhaps know far more about them than I do. I am just a candy-maker's son who knew what it was to have a sweet father and a sweet mother, and who knew the meaning of keeping one's word.

To-day, the keeping of words is not very sacred. People use them as if they were running from a tap in the kitchen and try to wash off the dishes of their thought, but as you know, you have to use soap to get them clean! There is nothing more readily at hand to erase the film from your experience than the All. Blue Cheer is available and so is Tide. The tide is always coming-in and going-out.

If you have sight, do claim the All and see how the blind are healed, the deaf hear, the mute is removed from the strings of your Heart, and you start once again responding with the accuracy of authenticity to those strings that are geared to what is termed the seven-stringed lyre accompanying such words as “I love wondrous Light!”

These few words may appear to be far sent but they do appear in the tonality of my appearance, for you are present. If you were not present, no Word like this would be heard. Since you are present and the Word is heard, we know then, within the fabric of our knowingness, that there is not a word that comes from the lyre of the Heart and proceeds into the vestibule of your presence that does not bear with it the auditory response to the sound, so penetrating the veil of suggestions that you respond with the perception of absolute value, as you see your place in stifling the suggestions of time and offering a way for this world and the people therein to achieve once again that State that is termed harmonic and rhythmic and in keeping with that known as Heaven here and now.

It is not some place that you are going to go to. If you think it is, it is hell! When you live knowing that I AM the Force to your presence, then you know that the comfort comes, for you do not have to declare yourself to be present because you are so assured of the omnipresence and the omniscience of that constant Presence known as I AM that allows your pseudonym to be utilized and dropped at will as you engage once again the rhythmic dance from sense to Soul.

These few words preface this meeting in somewhat the staid offering of choice words, for they do come forth involuntarily. They are said for you who are to hear, and having ears, I pray you hear.

